

Each group participant receives a mini canvas (5"x7") with the outline of a traditional animal created by our resident Indigenous Pamagirri Artists. Alternatively, one large canvas can be supplied for a group to work on at once. The large canvas can be packaged and sent to the group as a memory of their visit.

A Pamagirri Artist will conduct a brief tutorial to explain traditional colours and painting techniques used in Aboriginal art (eg. dot art) and the importance of passing on traditions and customs through art and story telling.

With the guidance of a Pamagirri Artist, each group participant will add their own aboriginal dot-style design and transform their canvas into a masterpiece.
